RE: WC Docket No. 13-184, Modernizing the E-rate Program for Schools and Libraries

Dear Ms. Dortch:

On Tuesday, October 28, 2014, the undersigned, on behalf of NTCA–The Rural Broadband Association (“NTCA”), along with Brian Ford of NTCA, and Debra Kriete, the South Dakota E-rate Coordinator, and Julie Tritt Schell, the Pennsylvania E-rate Coordinator, on behalf of the State E-rate Coordinators Alliance (“SECA”), held separate meetings with: (1) Amy Bender, Legal Advisor to Commissioner Michael O’Rielly; (2) Nick Degani, Legal Advisor to Commissioner Ajit Pai and (3) Jon Wilkins, the Managing Director of the Federal Communications Commission (the “Commission”), Patrick Halley, Wireline Competition Bureau Associate Bureau Chief, Trent Harkrader, Wireline Competition Bureau Associate Bureau Chief, Lisa Hone, Telecommunications Access Policy Division Deputy Division Chief, and James Bachtell of the Wireline Competition Bureau.

The parties discussed the definition of “rural” used for the purposes of determining whether any given school, library, school district, or system of anchor institutions qualifies for an additional rural discount under the E-rate program.<sup>1</sup> This definition is the subject of petitions for reconsideration filed by NTCA/the Utah Rural Telecom Association<sup>2</sup> and SECA,<sup>3</sup> among others.<sup>4</sup> As part of that proceeding, the parties discussed the problems presented for many rural schools and libraries by the revised definition and discussed the potential for a compromise solution to such problems.

The parties began by stating that, as discussed further in the petitions and supporting comments, the inclusion of “urban clusters” (defined by the US Census Bureau as geographic areas with between 2,500 and 50,000 persons) within the definition of “urban” will result in significant shifts in E-rate support for many small schools and libraries that dot the sparsely-populated rural landscape. To provide more specifics and context to demonstrate these shifts, the parties discussed Attachment 1 hereto. This document demonstrates that in the state of South Dakota and for the identified school districts noted in Attachment 1, the amended definition of “rural” will cause these school districts to lose a total of $60,423.41 in Category 1 funding for funding year 2015 as compared to funding year 2014. The reduction in funding for Category 2 funding for the same institutions and for the upcoming five year time period is $562,163.41. As SECA noted, in some cases, the school districts highlighted in Attachment 1 serve only several hundred total students, and thus the dollar figures – while perhaps small in terms of school districts in larger urban areas serving perhaps tens or hundreds of thousands of students – represent a particularly large portion of these rural districts’ funding for eligible communications services that support their important educational missions.

NTCA and SECA also discussed the fact that the July 2014 E-rate Modernization Order’s inclusion of “urban clusters” into the definition of “rural” seems contrary to the claim that this change was made “[i]n keeping with [the Commission’s] commitment to ensur[e] that rural schools and libraries are able to afford E-rate supported services.”<sup>5</sup> Moreover, this specific definition does not seem to have support in the record in this proceeding. The lack of analysis in either the E-rate Modernization Order or the E-rate Modernization NPRM<sup>6</sup> as to the effect that such a change would have on rural community anchor institutions, and the lack of comments filed by any party in support of such a change, suggests that the Commission did not intend to reduce E-rate support to rural institutions.

In an effort to move forward and in the spirit of compromise, NTCA and SECA discussed a proposed change to the definition of “rural” that would allow schools and libraries in urban clusters with populations below 25,000 to be considered rural for the purposes of the E-rate program. Ninety-two percent of all areas defined as “urban clusters” have populations of less than 25,000. The proposal would meet the FCC’s understandable desire to harmonize the definition of “rural” in accord with Census-based designations with the very acute needs of such areas for access to vital E-rate funding. NTCA noted that this proposal was made in the context of consideration of the petition for reconsideration and by a large number of associations representing a diverse segment of the educational and library communities.<sup>7</sup> NTCA also observes that such a change would be consistent with admonitions by the Census Bureau itself that the definitions it uses may not be appropriate for the implementation of policy by individual agencies in specific circumstances.<sup>8</sup>

To show the effect of the proposed compromise on different communities, the parties discussed Attachment 2 hereto that lists, to the parties' knowledge, every "urban cluster" in the United States, its population, its status under the newly revised definition of "rural" and its proposed status should the above-discussed compromise proposal be enacted by the Commission. Attachment 2 is intended to assist the Commission in its efforts to consider the effect of the proposed compromise definition of "rural."

Finally, NTCA and SECA acknowledged that grant of the petitions for reconsideration and subsequent adoption of the compromise definition of "rural" could present challenges for the Universal Service Administrative Company ("USAC") as it implements the change at the same time as it implements the E-rate Modernization Order. There is certainly no intention to interfere with this process or to impede in any way USAC's efforts or delay the 2015 funding year application process. Thus, NTCA and SECA expressed their desire for the Commission to consider this issue on an expedited basis so that timing of the relief could be coordinated within the framework of the upcoming filing window for the FY 2015 period which is slated to open on or around January 7, 2015.

Thank you for your attention to this correspondence. Pursuant to Section 1.1206 of the Commission's rules, a copy of this letter is being filed via ECFS.

Sincerely,
